THE NEW CENTRAL COMMITTEE. Those Who Will Manage This Year's Campaign for the Republicans. The scene in the New Denison lobby last night was suggestive of many that occurred there during the aggressive campaign of 1888. Then, as now, the Republicans-for the unusual number of persons there were of that political faith-showed their hopefulness by lively greetings and exchange of views. There was present a geniality that brought everybody within the circle of good feeling, and the coming together was that of men who had confidence in their purposes and their work. Committeemen recently elected, and who were for the first time to take their place in State management, stepped into line with the ease of veterans and the spirit of the sanguine. But whether new or old, each committeeman brought encouraging reports from his district. There was no talk of dissatisfied Republicans or grievances to be redressed, but everything indicated a healthy condition of affairs, out of which is to come hard, earnest work for months to come. It was said by this and that committeeman that the recent district conventions showed a force and unanimity in the party that could not fail to be productive of the best results. Among the new members of the committee, but one conversant with political work through a long connection with the State committee in previous years, is H. A. Mattison, of Evansville. He has been out of the active work, except in bis own district, for some time on account of his business, but he comes back again with the fervor and in-terest of a beginner. "I have always been a Republican," said he, "and will remain one until the party changes its principles."

Mr. Mattison does not believe in complaining or sitting down with hands folded, because, perchance, affairs might not go his way. "I am too good a Republican," he continued, in his talk with the reporter, "to let any disappointments affect my duty to the party. Do not understand that I have sought any office, for I have not, nor do I want one. I hold to the idea of the office seeking the man, and not the man the office. That is not only the safest plan, but allows one to bear disappointment philosophically."

"Are the Republicans satisfied in your "We have nothing to complain of and there are as many thorough-going and wide-awake Republicans in the First district today as there ever were. People in the northern part of the State have no idea of what we have to contend against in the Pocket. We are on the border of what was once rebeldom and in our own district have to fight thousands who were in full sym-pathy with the Southern Confederacy. They have accused us of bringing negro voters across the river, but we never did.
On the contrary, the Democrats import Kentuckians, and have done it into one township of Vanderburg county to the number of 2,500 at one time. I know that to be a fact. It is such political rascality on the part of the enemy that made us wide awake in all our movements. I did not want to be a committeeman, but the boys want to be a committeeman, but the boys insisted, notwithstanding my repeated assertions that my business would compel me to decline the honor. They selected me, however, and did it with such a fine support that I feel it my duty to do all that I honestly can in helping to elect the Republican State ticket."

All of the new committee have had experience in political work, and are ready to give their time to what may be demanded of them. Mr. Mattison, of the First district, is a native of New York State. He came to Indiana years ago, and with prom-inence in law, and a long service in the Union army, together with an experience in rebel prisons, at once became a popular Republicau. He says he first voted for John C. Fremont, and has never failed since that time to give his support unfalteringly, regardless of personal considerations, to Republican candidates.

T. H. Adams, of the Second district, was the only member of the committee not present at the meeting. He comes from the old active young Republicans and as editor of the Vincennes Commercial. He is Indiana born and bred, a man of fine ability and energetic in his Republican ism.

S. E. Carter, of Seymour, who represents the Third district, was born and raised in Jackson county. For years he was paying teller of the First National Bank of Seymour, and has been connected with other banking interests in his county. He was educated in Seymour schools, and has always taken active interest in party politics. He was chairman of the county central committee for a number of years. He was engaged with the State committee in

M. R. Sulzer, of Madison, is the commit-teeman from the Fourth district. In 1882 he was elected and in 1883 re-elected city attorney for Madison. While in that office he compiled the laws of the city, and at the close of his term received the thanks of all the members of the City Council of both parties. In 1884 he was elected and in 1886 re-elected prosecuting attorney of the Fifth judical circuit, which position he ably filled. In 1888 and in 1890 he was elected a member of the Republican State central committee, both times unanimously. He is a self-made man, educated, intelligent, and a very eloquent and forcible speaker. His second election as vice-chairman of the State committee occurred last night. C. S. Hammond, of Greencastle, from the Fifth district, was born April 24, 1856, in Putnam county. He was alternate delegate to Chicago in 1884 and 1888. He has been for seventeen years connected with the First National Bank of Greencastle. He is a good politician and an earnest Repub-

J. W. Macy, lawyer and farmer, of Winchester, is the Sixth district committeeman. He was born in Henry county, June 21, 1843, and has lived in Randolph county since. 1854. He served in Company A, Eightyfourth Indiana Infantry, during the late war, and was deputy auditor and deputy clerk four years. After that he was elected clerk of the Randolph Circuit Court, and served four years, from 1877. He became State Senator from the district composed of Henry, Delaware and Randolph connties, and served as such in the sessions of 1885 and 1887. He served as chairman of the Republican central committee of Randolph county during the campaigns of 1878, 1880, 1884 and 1888, W. T. Durbin, of Anderson, was born in Lawrenceburg, in 1847, and for seventeen years resided in Washington county, from which he enlished in the army, at the age of fifteen years. With five others of the same family, he holds an honorable discharge from the army. After the war he engaged in teaching school until 1869, when he came to Indianapolis and took employment with the dry-goods jobbing house of Murphy, Johnston & Co., with whom he remained for ten years, in charge of their office. In 1879 he removed to Anderson, and has been engaged in the banking business and mercantile pursuits. He has always been active in politics, as a stanch Republican, and was a Harrison elector for the Seventh district. He has never held or been an aspirant for office. William T. Brush, the new Eighth district committeeman, is forty-five years old, an active part in politics, and is a straight-C. C. Shirley, of Kokomo, representing the Ninth district, is thirty years old, and has always lived in Howard county. He is an attorney, and has practiced in Kokomo for the past nine years. He was educated in the public schools of Howard county and received a partial collegiate course at Asbury University and at Ann Arbor Law School. He was prosecuting attorney of his judicial circuit for two years, from 1882 his judicial circuit for two years, from 1882 "Are the reasons for McDonald's hostilforward, honest man.

mo for the past five years. Edgar D. Crumpaeker, of Valparaiso, committeeman of the Tenth district, was born in La Porte county. May 27, 1852, and brought up on a farm. He was educated at the Valparaiso male and female college, the Valparaiso male and female college, and began the practice of law at his present home in 1879. He was prosecuting attorney of the Thirty-first circuit from 1884 to 1888, and was a member of the State central committee in 1888. He was chairman of the Porter county Republican committee in 1882, and city attorney of Valparaiso from 1882 to 1884 to 1884, and has been city attorney of Kokofrom 1882 to 1884. William Hazen, of Wabash, represents the Eleventh district in the committee. He was born in Cleveland, O., Sept. 8, 1848, and resided there until 1857, when he moved to Illinois, and thence to Pennsylvania, near New Castle. When his father died, in 1858, he moved to Wabash, this State, where he he moved to Wabash, this State, where he has resided since, except about two years when serving as a private in the Fourteenth Indiana Battery. Light Artillery. He has served ten years as deputy auditor, and is now serving on his seventh year as auditor of Wabash. Mr. Hazen is actively interested in all public enterprises in Wabash county, being at present president of the Wabash County Agricultural Society. He is a very active and intelligent worker for the Republican party.

Wm. Bunyan, of Kendallville, is the committeeman for the Twelfth district. He is a native of Saratoga county. New York.

These gentlemen constitute, it is said by those of experience in politics, one of the best working committees the Republican party has ever had in this State. Among the other leading Republicans in attendance were J. H. Hodapp, Seymour; E. H. Nebeker, Covington; Jno. T. Nixon, Attica; Orville T. Chamberlain, O. Z. Hubbell, Ed R. Kerstalen, J. R. Beardsly, Elkhart; N. J. Throckmorton, B. W. Smith, Lafayette; Thomas Jackson, Franklin; N. Ensley, Aphyrn: J. W. Cooper Kokama and A. O. Auburn; J. W. Cooper, Kokomo, and A. O. Marsh, Winchester.

TRANSACTIONS OF COMMITTEE.

Election of Officers and Adoption of Reso-

The members of the State central committee met in one of the parlors of the New Denison, early in the evening, all the members responding promptly to the call for order. The business of organization was speedily transacted, as there was no opposition to the selection of most of the old officers, as follows:

Chairman—Louis T. Michener, Indianapolis.
Vice-chairman—M. R. Sulzer, Madison.
Secretary—F. M. Millikan, New Castle.
Treasurer—Horace McKay, Indianapolis.
Executive Committee—S. J. Peelle, Indianapolis; J. K. Gowdy, Rushville; E. H. Nebeker, Covington; J. B. Homan, Danville; W. N. Harding, Indianapolis. The following resolution, offered by Mr.

Sulzer, was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the Republican party of Indiana is in full accord with President Harrison and his administration, and tenders him its con-

The following was adopted unanimously and ordered to be transmitted by telegraph to Speaker Reed: The Republicans of Indiana express, through their State committee, their congratulations to you for your firm and earnest stand in maintaining the rights of the majority. "I am greatly pleased," said Chairman Michener, after the meeting, "with the new committee. Each member of it has had practical experience in the work of party organization; has been connected in one capacity or another with his county committee for several years past, and has the judgment and energy which will enable him to do his work effectively. Most of work, but experience has taught me that a man who is successful in county politics is invariably successful in the perfecting of a congressional district organization, and in the broader work which is given to a member of the State committee. This is the fifth State committee with which I have had an intimate acquaintthe members are new to State committee which I have had an intimate acquaintance, and it is no disparagement of any other to say that it is as good as the best.

The executive committee is composed of old and experienced politicians, and the mere mention of their names is sufficient information to the Republicans of this State concerning their character and fitness for the work which will be assigned them.
Erom all parts of the State come rom all parts of the State come the most encouraging reports about the organization of the county committees. Larger conventions were held in the townships than ever before in the history of our party, and the men chosen as members and officers of the county committees are considerably above the average of the past years. In addition to this is the other very encouraging fact that these conventions were harmonious. The county organization in Marion county is especially gratifying. Good party workers have been put on in each precinct and the chairman and secretary will, in my judgment, make admirable officers. I do not believe a better chairman or secretary could have been obtained in this county. That is the judgment of every one with whom I have talked upon the subject. I confidently believe they will give the party a thorough organization and lead it to victory.'

"Correspondence from the various locali-ties in the State," said Secretary Millikan, "which is voluminous, indicates the best of harmony and is very assuring in every particular touching the organization and selection of representatives for various positions therein." The committee, after a long executive session, adjourned.

VOORHEES-GRAY COMBINE.

The Ex-Governor Out of the Senatorial Race and in for Something Higher.

That Senator Voorhees and ex-Governor Gray have come to an amicable understanding over the United States senatorship question, as telegraphed to the Journal from Washington yesterday, there is no longer any doubt. The parties to this pleasant little agreement, however, are extremely anxious to keep it very quiet. It was necessary for the "Tall Sycamore" to do something, and that pretty quickly, to patch up a truce with the ex-Governor, whose political ambitions threatened to interfere with the Senator's plans for the future. Accordingly he made a virtue of necessity and, though it must have been an unpleasant concession of weakness, took the initiative in a combination with ex-Governor Gray. In company with Leon Bailey, the Senator called at Gray's office yesterday afternoon, and was closeted with him for some time, leaving for Terre Haute immediately afterward. A Journal representative talked with the ex-Governor at the latter's residence last evening. While he was excessively cautious in treading on political ground, was evidently in excellent humor, and it was apparent that Voorhees's visit had left a pleasant impression-such an impression for instance as might be produced by the removal of an obstacle from the path of a candidate for the vice-presidency of the United States. The topic of the reported conversation was broached without delay. "There is no arrangement," said the ex-Governor, as if loaded for an interview on that subject, "or necessity for any arrangement between Senator Voorbees and mya native of Montgomery county, and has practiced law in Crawfordsville for over tinued, cautiously: "I have not announced noon, in the absence of the occupants, and twenty years. "Are the reasons for McDonald's hostility to you the same now as in 1888?"

"I presume so, but, as I just remarked, I have never said anything about him, and don't care to discuss the subject of his animosity towards me." The ex-Governor carefully weighed every word he uttered, and, as will be gathered from the above reported conversation, was not at all disposed to be communicative on matters political. He talked freely enough on other questions, but seemed uneasy whenever the Voorhees deal was touched on. It was evidently intended to keep that a secret, but as it leaked out in spite of the efforts of the ambitious principals the only thing left is to deny it strenuously and then maintain a dignified silence. The interview terminated with a repetition by the ex-Governor of his denial and a request that he be accurately quoted in the matter.

King Settles with a Deputy. That the Democrats have no use for old soldiers, except about election day, was again exemplified, yesterday, by Sheriff King's action in discharging Deputy C. P. Conard, the only ex-soldier he had in the office. As is his right, Deputy Conard favors Langenburg for the nomination for sheriff, and made no secret of his choice. King's candidate is Crosby, and, failing to Sheriff King's action is being severely condemned, not alone by the soldier element, but by all people who know the facts in the case.

BEGAN TO FIGHT FOR POINTS

A Contest That Became Too Aggressive to Suit Capt. Bruce and He Stopped It.

Corrigan and Carroll Enter the Ring as Light Weights-At the Fifteenth Round the Fight Was Called a Draw.

Mike Corrigan, of this city, and Jimmy Carroll, of Chicago, fought a fifteen-round glove contest for points last night, at Kissel's garden, corner of Tennessee and Nineteenth streets. The police were notified in the afternoon that a fight was to occur somewhere within the city limits, but it was not until evening that the exact location was ascertained. Captain Bruce, accompanied by a small detail of patrolmen, was on hand in plenty of time to see the first round, which he had determined to prohibit if the affair became ugly. At the entrance of the garden he was met by a door-keeper who was glad to admit him

"Yes, I know I can get in all right," said the Captain, "but I want to know if you fellows are going to keep within the law." "Keep within the law?" remarked the door-keeper. "Why, we've got the law on our side. Look at that if you want to be certain. I guess that name is good for almost anything in the way of the law."

As he said this he flourished a formidable-looking document in the officer's face, which bore the caption, "License for Glove Contest." Even this was not sufficient to convince Captain. Bruce, but a second convince Captain Bruce, but a second glance over the paper caused his expression to change. It read:

Witness my hand and seal, this 30th day of January, 1890. THOMAS L. SULLIVAN, Mayor, by E. B. Swift, City Clerk.

On the strength of this unquestioned authority from the Mayor, the fight began before a circle of fifty or more spectators. Both men were light-weights, Corrigan weighing 122 pounds and Carroll 127. At 10 o'clock they took their corners, Corrigan being seconded by Bob Metzger and Harry Murphy, and Carroll by Pete Treeter. Four-ounce gloves were used, and at 10:20 o'clock the first round was called by P. Smith and Frank Johnson, time-keepers, with Tommy Miller as referee. The rounds were two minntes each, with one and onehalf minute between them. The rounds

First Round—Carroll opened with a vig-orous push, but scored no points. Both men sparred for time, and got it on Corri-gan's slipping to the floor. Foul claimed by Corrigan's friends, but refused by the Second Round-Carroll opened with a square tap on Corrigan's left cheek, but received two in the face in return. Both men sparred for opportunities until Carroll got in a full back-strike, catching Corri-gan squarely in the mouth and drawing first blood.

Third Round—Corrigan pushed the fight, driving Carroll to the ropes with three good blows on the face and head. Before Carroll could regain his ground he received an upward backhand blow squarely over the left eye which caused him to stagger and with this slight advantage, Corrigan followed with a full blow on the neck under the left ear. Carroll's only point was the left ear. Carroll's only point was scored by a strike from the shoulder which caught Corrigan in the face, and made the blood flow vigorously. Corrigan followed his opponent up and drove him to his cor-ner, giving him a blow on the chin which drew first blood on the Chicago boxer.

Fourth Round—Carroll opened, but scored no points before he received a blow just above the belt, which temporarily weakened his attack. After he recovered he pushed the fight with vigor, putting in a blow on Corrigan's left cheek which again drew blood. In return he received a square

Fifth Round—Carroll again opened, but Corrigan drove him to the ropes in the start by two blows in the face. He foilowed with a square front blow in Corrigan's mouth, but again went to the ropes inder three blows, two of which fell on his nose and one squarely between the eyes.

Sixth Round—Both men clinched in the start, Corrigan opening with two full blows in Carroll's face. He followed these up with one on the nose which drew blood. Both clinched again, Corrigan seizing Car-roll around the waist, but time was called on a break-away.

Seventh Round—Carroll opened with two square blows in Corrigan's face, who returned with one under the left eye. Both men weakened perceptibly under vigorous apar-ring, and both drew blood. Time was called by an outsider thirty seconds before the limit, but a stop was allowed by mutual Eighth Round-A quiet opening developed into more vigorous work, as Carroll struck Corrigan once below the belt. Cor-rigan returned with a blow from the shoul-

Ninth Round-After considerable sparring for time, Carroll opened with a blow on Corrigan's right cheek. Carroll received one on the chin. Tenth Round-Carroll opened with front blow for Corrigan's face, which was parried well. Corrigan finally drove Car-

Eleventh Round-Carroll opened, giving Corrigan a square blow in the face. The latter's friends claimed a foul, which was refused by the referee.

Twelfth Round-Both opened with vigor, Carroll being on the defensive. He planted one blow squarely on Corrigan's face, however, and one on his neck before a return could be made. Corrigan forced Carroll to the ropes, where both exchanged several rapid blows with but little effect. Carroll lost ground by striking over Corrigan's head, but planted a square back-hand blow in his face as Corrigan dodged back. Thirteenth Round-Carroll opened, forcing Corrigan to his corner in the start.

Corrigan retired very bloody.

Fourteenth Round—Carroll opened, but weakened at a blow above the belt. Corrigan was forced around the ring, and was, for a moment, at his opponent's mercy. H retired with his face and shoulders covered

Fifteenth round-Carroll opened with a square blow on Corrigan's left cheek, and, following him up, scored the first knock-Captain Bruce stepped into the ring as Corrigan fell to the floor, and, amid loud cries of "Foul, foul," notified the time-keeper that the fight must stop. "As long as these men fight for points," he said, "I shall not interfere, but I can see that they are angry, and I will put a stop to it right now."

"Let them fight it out," cried some one in the crowd, and the suggestion was followed

"No," insisted the officer." I have said it must stop here, and it will." Carroll and Corrigan shook hands and referee Miller declared the fight a draw. The sympathy of the spectators was clearly with Corrigan, for Carroll was backed by only a half-dozen or more particular friends. Both men fought well for light-weights, and everybody was well pleased with the exhibition. Corrigan was trained by Bob Metzger, who is a well-known local middle-weight. He received many congratulations over the good record made by the young boxer, and it is his in-tention to initiate him further into the art of self-defense. Amusement Notes. Alice Harrison, who plays the servant, Bella, in "Our Flat," which comes to the Grand next Monday night, is as well known as her brother, Louis Harrison. Market-Master Isgrigg Resigns. Market-master Wells, who was arrested Wednesday morning on a charge of grand larceny of the city's money, waived preliminary examination before Mayor Sullivan yesterday morning. His case will come up to-day. East Market-master Isgrigg sent in his resignation to the market com-mittee of the Council yesterday afternoon, which was accepted.

Harry Walker's Loss. The money-drawer of Harry Walker's saloon, on Court street, was robbed of $100 last evening.

H. B. Turrill at Andersonville.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal:

Permit me to correct an error in the exceedingly interesting and otherwise correct account of Andersonville prison, in your paper of Jan, 19, by my old friend and comrade, Robert W. Medkirk. In speaking of the hanging of six men for murder, in the prison, he says: "H. B. Turrill, of the Seventy-second Ohio, now a practicing lawyer of Cincinnati, acted as prosecuting attorney in the trials." Comrade Medkirk is mistaken, and does me too much honor. I was there, a prisoner, but took no part whatever in these trials, though I did appear occasionally in other and entirely dif-ferent cases. My only connection with the fate of these murderers was that I was sergeant of one of the nineties and marched out to Captain Wirz's headquarters with the other sergeants, there being about three hundred and sixty of us, each representing ninety men. Captain Wirz said: "You Yankees been robbing and killing one anudder, and it must stop. You catch and pring all dem raiders to me, and I gives you a court to try dem, and hang dem, when you like to. Den I gifs you noting to eat at all till you catch all dem fellers." We, the sergeants, selected a court, or jury, had no rations for two days at that time. CINCINNATI, Jan. 29. H. B. TURRILL.

Knell of the Filibuster.

Chicago News (Ind. Dem.) Speaker Reed's action yesterday, when he refused to allow the point of "no quorum" raised by the Democrats in order to prevent the consideration of a contestedto prevent the consideration of a contested-election case, is commendable. Instead of respecting the parliamentary fiction that all members who do not vote are absent, the Speaker carefully counted them in their seats. Of course this raised a storm among the Democrats. They uphold the rulings of Mr. Carlisle, who, as Speaker, was a constant source of joy and comfort to filibusters. The Republicans mean to push matters. Common sense is on the side of matters. Common sense is on the side of Speaker Reed, who is supported by his party with practical unanimity. Filibustering is likely to become extinct if the Republicans remain united.
